LONDON, June 21 (Reuter).—The Air Ministry discloses to-day that within 24 hours of Italy becoming a belligerent two of Italy's largest aircraft aero-engine factories, the Ansaldo Works of Genoa, and the Fiat Factory of Turin, were successfully bombed by the R.A.F.

In order to make this possible, the towering barrier of the Alps had to be crossed. In this rarefied atmosphere, the R.A.F. crews were sustained by cylinders of oxygen carried in the aircraft and inhaled through face-masks.

COMPIEGNE FOREST, BY FIELD TELEPHONE TO BERLIN, JUNE 21 (UP).—HITLER PRESENTED THE GERMAN CONDITIONS FOR AN ARMISTICE IN THE BATTERED AND ANCIENT RAILWAY CARRIAGE IN WHICH THE ARMISTICE OF 1918 WAS SIGNED.

The carriage, still on the same rails but raised on a concrete bed with a suitable inscription, has stood on the same spot for nearly 23 years, commemorating the end of what was, until 1940, the bloodiest and most savage war the world has known.

General Keitel read the preamble which preceded the actual Armistice conditions.

The preamble detailed Germany's grievances at the 1918 conditions.

This ceremony lasted a scant ten minutes. Hitler then left the carriage, leaving the French and German plenipotentiaries to discuss the actual Armistice terms.

As he left Hitler saluted stiffly. "DEUTSCHLAND UBER ALLES"

A German military band played "Deutschland uber Alles" and the Horst Wessel song as the Fuehrer departed. The French delegates stood to the salute. Telephone facilities were made available, placing the French delegates in direct radiophone communication with the French Government.

On the face of it the idea of men cropping to earth in hundreds from neroplanes is almost farcical. But the lesson of the past few weeks has been swiffly learned by Britain.

Police Armed

If the parachute invaders come. we are fully prepared for them. AS PART OF ENGLAND'S VERY EXTENSIVE PLANS FOR SMASHING ANY SUCH AT-TEMPT, THE GOVERNMENT RECENTLY TOOK A DECISION THAT IS HISTORIC.

FOR THE FIRST TIME. THE BRITISH POLICE WILL BE ARMED, FOR THE PURPOSE OF COUNTERING THE LAND-ING OF GERMAN INVADERS BY PARACHUTE.

This decision was arrived at after a conference between Sir Philip Game, Commissioner of Police, and the Home Office. During the next few days, Chief Constables in every county will be advised to take steps to train their police forces in the use of revolvers and automatic pistols. It is emphasised that such arms are only to be used in the event of any fort of landing by the enemy in this country. But the arming of the police is only one aspect of Britain's reply to

IT WAS ON A RECENT FRI-DAY THAT BRITAIN WOKE UP TO THE FACT THAT PARACHUTE INVASION WAS NOT JUST A WILD DREAM BUT A DEFINITE POSSIBIL-ITY, WHEN THE GOVERN-MENT ISSUED OFFICIAL IN-STRUCTIONS TO THE PUBLIC ADVISING THEM WHAT TO WO IF THEY ENCOUNTERED PARACHUTE RAIDERS.

The advice was: Take a careful note of the exact position of the

He can't hear himself speak as in a whippet tank, his two heavy Vickers machine-guns splt forth their deadly 500 rounds a minute; can hear still less in the cruiser and big tanks as their 2-pounder guns augment the machine-gun din by firing between them twelvo shells a minute.

The whippet has a crew of not fewer than three-driver, gunner, spare man. They are cavalry on wheels, out to reconnoitre with lightning rapidity.

More likely than not, they are ex-cavalrymen skilled in the art of reconnaissance.

The cruiser and big tanks, besides their armament of twopounder and machine-guns, have wireless-transmitting and receiving apparatus. An operator is among the crew, and in every big tank there is an officer as well. Orders are given to the squadron

HONGKONG WAR EFFORT TO BE INTENSIFIED

The question of whether war materials should be manufactured in Hongkong was the main topic at the second public meeting to discuss Hongkong's war effort, in the Peninsula Hotel yesterday. It was decided that money raised should be sent to the South China Morning Post, Ltd. fund with the recommendation that, if thought fit by the Home Government, the manufacture of war materials in Hongkong should be expedited.

Among the suggestions made were a Government lottery, organisation of concerts and other entertainments, holding of a flag day once a month, the collection of scrap, old papers and tins, bridge and mah-jong drives and the mobilisation of Indians. A Committee of 12, to be known as the Hongkong War Effort

The Japanese Army

The belligerent attitude adopted by the Japanese military command in Canton against France may or may not indicate that the Japanese Army and Navy, no matter what the Tokyo Government decides, intends to take matters in its own hands vis-a-vis French Indo-China.

The Japanese forces may limit their action to a demonstration with the express purpose of not only closing the French Indo-China frontler entirely...to_China,....They_may_be_em boldened to go further.

We in Hongkong must recognise that any pressure applied to France regarding the route from Indo-China to China may be extended to Britain regarding the route from Burma to Chino. Since Burma is for away and out of reach, such Japanese pressure, if it is forthcoming, may be directed to Hongkong.

We do not intend to suggest that the Japanese harbour any intention of invading the soil of either French or British possessions in the Far East. It is possible that any demonstration they make against French Indo-China, and perhaps later against British possessions, may be on the lines adopted in Tlentsin, where the British and French concessions were blockaded.

In Hongkong, fortunately, the authorities have overlooked no contingency that may arise, and the populace may rest assured that their interests are being safeguarded with all the resources that are at the command of the Colony.

Since last August the Japanese have visited the Hongkong frontler on several occasions for foraging purposes. Unfortunately, a certain tension has arisen amongst the people in the Colony, caused mainly by the wave of unwarranted and grotesque rumours that have been spread by malicious and evilly disposed men and women in our midst. Should the Japanese agair decide to come southwards toward the frontier, the calm with which previous excursions has been greeted may be absent. It is unhappily a fact that people purporting to be "in the know," can spread more plarm and uneasiness by cultivating an air of mystery and dropping sly innuendos than by plainly stating the grounds—that no one residing in facts of relative unimportance which Hongkong has cause for real fear or Hitler is staking (all he has on a \quick victory. I Now we'll know, the real strength of his Air Farce.

CERMANY, by relent-Ulessly smashing through France has embarked on the most ambitious and infamous military adventure in history.

Hitler is staking his Front Line Air Force, his reserves of petrol, oil, and other materials of war, and millions of men, on , one desperate attempt to win the war quickly.

Although Holland, Belgium and France are the sufferers from his lightning blow, it is aimed at us. By the time these words are in print, these islands may have felt the physical shock of war.

Now begins the fight to the death, the great decisive struggle. There, this summer, the war is to be fought

There is no need now for me or any other commentator to talk of the need of courage and determination. The sudden invasion of the Netherlands and Belgium did more to call these qualities forth than any words could do.

England at last is awake, proud, defiant, and ready. If Hitler thinks that in choosing a moment of political difficulty he has caught the British people off their guard, it is the greatest mistake of his

At once all recriminations were silenced, all differences set aside. We all found ourselves ready to put self aside and stand shoulder to shoulder, and to put ourselves at the service of the State.

Of all classes and conditions, whatever our social, our financial, positions, we are all in the same boat now, fighting not for our possessions but for our lives.

Hitler Chooses The Wrong Moment

DECENTLY I ventured to suggest that the first reaction to our first setback would be an angry demand for the more active prosecution of the war against Germany.

I doubt that anyone was prepared for the extraordinary burst of public feeling which did come. A wave of patriotism, such as this country has not demonstrated for many years, has swept the country.

This is the moment Hitler has chosen for the launching of his long-delayed lightning war. And in another sense, too, he has chosen his wrong moment.

It is better for us that he strikes now than eight months ago, when we were ten times more vulnerable and much less able to strike

Readers of these articles will not be surprised by the nature of the attack, by the tactics employed, or by the strength of the blow. They are precisely as foreshadowed here, week after week.

The only surprising thing about the whole tremendous adventure is that the enemy are in their possession. It cannot be uneasiness. It is almost certain that emphasised too strongly that Govern- the Japanese forces will again visit emphasised too strongly that Government officials—and, be it said, Service officers, too—have a responsibility to the community, for the fact that they are employed in officials more or less implies that they have knowledge to which the ordinary person has no necess.

It also cannot be too strongly that they have no quarrel with Japan:

so thoroughly advertised his intentions beforehand. Holland and Belgium saw it coming, and had time to prepare. Indeed, they have had as much time as we have had, for their danger was clear from the beginning.

And the nature of the attack also was well foreshadowed. German military methods run true to form. WHEN GERMAN MILI-TARY INVENT OR EVOLVE A TACTICAL PLAN OF ATTACK, AND USE IT SUCCESSFULLY THEY MAY BE RELIED ON TO USE IT AGAIN AND AGAIN. When we heard of the wonderful co-operation between the German air force and the ground forces we realised that a novel method had been brought to the art of war. After the destruction of the Polish air bases, lowflying machines bombed and machine-gunned the Polish troops in the field.

While the troops were still demoralised, German tanks came among them, followed by the main body of infantry The Poles were overwhelmed. The Lesson Norway

Taught Us

THAT, we saw, was what must inevitably happen when the Germans attacked unfortified positions held by troops without adequate air support of their own. That was the method the Germans employed against our own troops in Norway.

It could not have been employed so successfully if we had been able to establish air bases in Norway. (We have learned that lesson now, and we know that the new technique calls for something more than ordinary co-operation between the ground forces and the air forces.)

In a battle of this sort the air attack must be absolutely under the direction of the General in charge of the battle. The time has come for us to see what happens when two armies, each with co-operating bombers and

fighters, meet in battle. That will be the real test of strength and courage, such as the Polish campaign and the Norweglan adventure were not.

And now, on the Western Front, we have faced the real challenge. The attack occurred in the manner we have been accustomed to expect -with a series of bombing raids on air bases and other objectives, military and otherwise.

But bombing raids cannot win a war. Nothing but defeat of the opposing army and the capture of its strategical strongholds can do that.

The same ground and air cooperation which worked successfully in Norway and Poland is effective in countries with strongly fortified frontiers and well-trained and equipped armies.

But we shall soon see how the German bombers fare when they are faced by an air force superior in personnel and material, if not in numbers, to their own.

The enemy bases are now well within range of our fast fighters, which in almost every combat, over the sear or on the Western Front, have proved more than a match for the German machines and their

Within the next few days we may expect to know the worst about the strength of the German Air Force. Field-Marshal Goering has called it the most destructive weapon the world ever saw. It must also be one of the most costly in the dally wastage of war.

THAT Hitler has chosen to throw. It wholesale into the fray at this time is proof that he sees the occasion as urgent. It is clear that he is compelled to rely on a quick victory, having seen that no other sort of victory is possible.

By his series of invasions of neutral countries he is staking even more than his air force and his armles. As neutrals, Denmark and Southern Norway were useful to hlm, and his invasion brought him only temporary loot. His gains there are only a drop in the bucket of his needs, and they will be exhausted quickly.

If Hitler, as he hopes, could defeat Britain this summer, he could snap his fingers at world opinion. If his attempt to bring us to our knees fails, world opinion can be no more strongly against him than it is to-day.

During all these months, while we obeyed the rules and the enemy broke them, our only reward was ridicule from the neutrals them-

While we saw other countries reduced to ashes by action from the air, we sat back and assumed that it was not necessary or advisable to bomb the enemy's munition factories and military depots while he kindly refrained from bombnig our home front.

But now he is bombing open towns, Brussels has suffered again the agony of 1914. If there was ever justification for our refraining from bombing the enemy's military depots, surely there is

The time has come now to get down to the business of fighting this war. And since the enemy does not let neutrals stand in his way, neither must we.

From now on a veil of secrecy will be drawn over the battlefield. There will be long periods of silence. We must be patient, content to be told little about military or naval movements, for to tell us more would be to help the enemy.

Colonel Not Guilty On Ten Charges

COURT - MARTIALLED at Chelsea, Lieut-Colonel H. F. L. Williams, M.C., commanding a searchlight detachment of the Royal Artillery, was found "Not guilty" on ten charges.

The findings of the Court on the remaining charge, alleging conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline in that he permitted a sergeant of his unit to share his room as a sitting-room, will be promulgated.

Colonel Williams had plended not guilty to II charges, 4 of them alternative charges, under the Army Act, and it had been alleged that he was on terms of undue familiarity with Bergt. E. Nicholson, whom he permitted to share, his rooms as a sittingroom, whom he had allowed to dine with him in multi, and whom he had detached from his duty. The colonel is also alleged to have improperly used a car for private purposes.

MOST WERE MURDERERS Who's

It is only in detective fiction that murder becomes a fine art. In real life most murders are clumsy and inartistic. The drama in any murder trial lies not so much in the crime itself as in the murderer's fight to escape the consequences of his act.

That this is so is illustrated by Mr. W. Roughead in a book approprintely entitled "NECK OR NOTHING" (London: Cassell & Co.) a dramatic re-telling of some famous murder trials.

MR. ROUGHEAD is an accom-IVI plished amateur criminologist. His hobby is murder. Give him the printed account of some particularly horrid crime, or leave to attend the trial of someone accused of murder, and he is, curiously enough, in his element.

At first glance this taste for blood may seem unduly reprehensible. But if this is so the author ins in distinguished company. He has numbered among his correspondents H. B. Irving, the famous nctor, whose work. "A Book of Re-'markable Criminals" is something of agclassic on the subject, and no less a personage than that most urbane, fastidious and delicate novelist, Henry James, who urged the faither to "go back to the dear old human and sociable murders and adulteries and forgeries in which we are so agreeably at home. And don't tell me, for charity's sake, that your supply runs short." On one occasion-the story is told by Irving-Tennyson, the poet, nild Jowett, the philosopher sat up talking into the small hours of the morning. When Irving asked what was the subject of . conversation that so engrossed them. Tennyson replied, "Murders." At the present time any detective story-and they are the most popular form of entertainment with all classes of readers from judges to the proverbinlly tired business man-is not complete without at least one psycho-analysts, who can be relied upon to furnish explanations more terrifying than the crime itself. Mr. Roughend's first case is that of Stownways." In 1868 seven boys, whose ages ranged from 11 to 16, slowed away on the wooden sailing ship Arran, out of Greenock thr Quebec. The captain and mate of the Arran, ungered by this unlooked for addition to the ship's company, proceeded to treat the boys with sadistic cruelty.

They beat and starved them and finally capped their cruelty by put-Joing the youngsters, bare-footed and ill-clad, over the side on an icefield 10 miles from the Newfoundland const. When two of the lads died on their journey both the captain and mate were tried and sentenced to terms of imprisonment on the charge of culpable homicide.

. The most dramatic moment of the trial was when Bryson, one of the boys, told the court how he and his companions had left McEwan, one of those who died, "greetin" on the ice because he was too weak to move and they were too weak to help him. King's Park, Edinburgh (once the ancient Sanctuary of Holyrood and immortalised by Sir Walter Scott in the murder in "The Heart of Midiothian") is the scene of the author's next crime. In: 1934 a young married man named Toomey (was indicated for a particularly atrocious murder. His victim was in young woman. There was no doubt about the accused's guilt. The interest of the trial lay in his counsel's plea of "diminished responsibility," that Toomey was insane at the time of the crime. He Iwas found guilty, but Insanc. "IMPERIAL TWILIGHT," by Bertha Harding (London: George G. Harrap

IN this book, the third the authoress has devoted to the Hapsburgs, Mrs. Harding tells the story of Austria-Hungary's last monarchs, the ill-fated Karl and his Empress Zita.

It is a story that is pathetic rather than tragic, although it did culminate in Karl's death in lonely exile in Madeira, severed from his people and his friends no less completely than Napoleon in St. Helena.

Kept from contact with affairs of State by his jealous uncle, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, whose assassingtion at Sarajevo, brought him to the dual monarchy's already unstable throne when the Emperor Franz Joseph died in 1916. Karl was hardly fitted for the great task he was called on to perform.

But what he lacked in statecraft and experience he made up in part by his humanity and greatness of heart. It was these qualities which dictated the peaco efforts he made through his wife's brother in 1917-efforts which, had they received sympathetic support in Berlin might still have saved the crowns of Hapsburg and Hohenzollern and left a better world than that re-made at Ver-

The Boys on the Ice, or the Arran Stownways." In 1868 seven boys, The Pathetic Fall of the Hapsburgs

THE only case quoted by Mr. Roughead which does not concern murder is of particular interest to Australians. And in its own way it is more interesting and romantic than any of the others. In 1703 an carnest young Scots advocate named Thomas Muir made the mintake of admiring the leaders of the French Revolution and forming an organisation known as the "Friends of the

For this he was tried for sedition and sentenced to transportation to Botany Bay. Friends and admirers in America who regarded Muir as a martyr in the cause of freedom set out to rescue him. An American ship, the Otter, was fitted out and on January, 1799, Muir was smuggled aboard her while she lay at Sydney Cova.

The Otter was wrecked on the return voyage, only Mulr and two of the crew reaching the shore, where they were immediately taken captive by Red Indians. Excaping from the Indians, Muir wandered for hundreds of miles along the coast until he reached Panama, then a Spanish possession.

Governor, but when his political views became known he was shipped back to Spain as a prisoner.

He was at first well received by the OFF Cadlz his ship encountered a Bri-Jervis, and in the battle that followed Muir was compelled to bear arms against his fellow countrymen.

Wounded in the head by a cannon-ball-it cost him the sight of one eyehe was almost thrown overboard as dead by the victorious English seamen. Ashore, with the rest of the wounded Spaniards, he made his plight known to the French revolutionaries, who brought about his release.

When he reached Paris he was given an enthusiastic welcome, but the hard-ships and wounds he suffered had so weakened him that he died at Chan-tilly in September, 1708, a few months after his release.

It is a gentle and humanitarian figure who emerges from Mrs. Harding's pages -a man who not only strove hard for peace long before it was finally won in 1916, but who opposed the German policy of unrestricted submarine warfare with all his strength. And statesman though he was not. Karl could yet see that Austria could hope for no great benefits from a German victory. Pan-Germanism was already in the air. Soon after the war ended, as Mrs. Harding tells us. Vienna led an Austrian vote in favour of Anschluss with Germany.

It was characteristic of the disinterested Karl that peace and abdication should find him penniless, dependent oninternational charity. He was no opportunist, no calculating monarch with big investments abroad as insurance against a dynastic rainy day.

Through the periods of exile, first in Switzerland, then in Madeira, through the two ill-starred attempts to regain power in Budapest-these undertaken under pressure from the restless and wilful Zita-Mrs. Harding traces the sorry story of the last occupant of the Hapsburg throne.

It is an intimate and affecting picture she gives, a picture in which the gentle Karl stands out, if not as a great mon-arch, as a lovable and kindly man in whom the springs of humanity and generous instincts flowed strongly.

The story is continued briefly to in-clude the tale of Zita's widowhood since Karl's death, an event which left her in the blackest despair. Dynastic schemer though she was, she and Karl had married for love and no occupant of a throne has ever been more devoted as wife and mother.

The visit of Karl and Zita's son, Otio, to America gives this book a topical interest. With his schemes for a central European federation Otto may yet play a part in the affairs of his lost realm and give back to his mother that imperial prentige which, proud daughter Bourbon-Parma and mother of seven Hapsburgs, she still believes is hers by divine right.

Remember Ovaltine Sleep is Nerve-restoring Sleep In times of nervous tension there is nothing more essential than nerve-restoring sleep. Obviously no bedtime beverage can give you this kind of sleep unless it has definite nerve-restoring properties. Long experience and independent scientific tests have amply shown that 'Ovaltine' is outstanding in this respect.

'Ovaiting' is a scientifically perfect food possessing the essential vitamins, mineral salts and carbohydrates in their most assimilable form.

The exceptional nerve-restoring properties of 'Ovaltine' are largely derived from the new-laid eggs. liberally used in 'Ovaltine.' The eggs which 'Ovaltine' contains make it the complete tonic food beverage.

AMAZING DUNKIRK EPISODE IN PICTURES

Here are three of the most graphic pictures ever taken of a Nazi bomber being brought down in flames over Dunkirk during the recent evacuation of the Allied forces. Extreme left shows the monster plane badly hit; centre, the oil tank explodes (note the flying parts of the fusilage) and right, the machine dives to a fiery death. ### King's Birthday Parade Pictures

.The King's Birthday was fittingly observed in Hongkong last week with a parade of navy, army and Volunteers units past H.E. The Officer Administering the Government, the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, who took the salute. The parade was held in Wanchai. Here we see one of the units of the H.K.V.D.C., marching past the saluting base. Below, the O.A.C., attended by his personal A.D.C., Mr. B. C. Fay, returning to the saluting base after inspecting the guard of honour, and opposite, the O.A.G., carrying out his inspection of the guard, formed by the Royal Scots.-Ming Yuen and Mee Cheung.

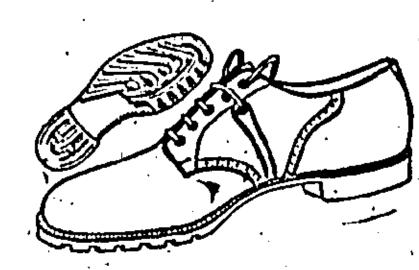

Crews attached to the Australian auxiliary cruisers now serving on the China Station, have recently been entertained by the local Australian community with dances at the European Y.M.C.A. These two pictures, taken at last week's function, shows some of the large crowd which attended the enjoyable affair.—Ming Yuen

LOTUS "DORMEONE" SHOES are very old and tried favourites. They have two special features --- the LOW HEEL and the "DORMEONE" STRAP.

The heel is only 34" high. This means that the weight of the body is thrown well back and a correct stance is enforced. Almost as good as the ideal—the barefoot stance.

The "DORMEONE" strap acts like a veritable extraligament, bracing the arch of the foot constantly and taking away the strain of the low heel. It is adjustable both for position and tension. It permits a full day's golf or hiking without foot fátigue.

Better Trade Expected

Conditions Normal

In Tientsin PEIPING, June 21 (Reuter).—The removal of barricades round the foreign concessions in Tientsin after 372 days, which was carried out yesterday with special ceremony, is expected to bring a considerable improvement to the trade of the port. Foreigners arriving from Tientsin this evening confirm that conditions have already returned to normal and that there is an unhindered passage of persons and cargo as formerly.

Observers believe that the regulations permitting Jupanese to reside again in the foreign concessions indicate that there is no likelihood of a re-introduction of the blockade which was equally harmful to Japanese business interests.

Cotton Takes the Stage

Organdie And Muslin Are Smart To-day

By ELEANOR GUNN

NEW YORK.—The style story for summer is cotton -for play clothes, daytime frocks and evening gowns. This all-American fabric is coming into its own this season in a big way, with organdies, piques and other cotton fabrics a "must" in every girl's wardrobe.

With so much classicism and tailoring in the fashion air, it is natural this year's lingeric blouses should neglect frills and flufflness for cleaner cuts and trimming. This is true even of georgette, lace-trimmed blouses and is particularly so for those of handkerchief linen. THESE ARE EX-GEROUS ANTI-SABOTAGE CAUTIONS AT SOME OF BRITAIN'S CHIEF MUNI-TION WORKS.

In certain cases, there is not even a wire fence to keep out enemy agents.

Sir John Anderson, the Home Secretary, is expected to deal with this peril when he announces his plans for suppressing the "Fifth Column" enerace this week.

"Wide Open"

Here is more startling evidence of our "wide-open" arms works: One factory is bounded on one side by a main railway line. Almost every day trains are held up by freight wagons. Any pasasenger could easily leave, one of these trains and gain access to the factory. On two other sides the factory is bounded by country lanes. Leafy hedges are the only barriers to keep out spies or wreckers. Another huge works, turning out millions of tons of armament material every week, is equally wide

Not Even A Fence

It is ringed by anti-alreraft guns to beat off enemy bombers, but little or nothing has been done to shut out "Fifth Columnists," Not even a wire fence has been erected.

FOR A CHANGE, local greens were fairly fast for the Lawn Bowls League matches last Saturday and as a result most of the games proved very enjoyable. Because of the rain in recent weeks, the greens have been very heavy of late and the delicate touch required for really good bowls has been conspicuously absent.

For a change also, the complete programme was played. There was nothing outstanding in the results, however, though in the First Division, the Civil Servants failed to provide the stiff opposition that was expected of them against Craigengower C.C.; and in the Second Division, Kowloon F.C. had a surprisingly easy victory over Club de Recreio, challengers for the championship.

The positions at the head of the First Division remain unchanged. But though Recreio "A" are still leading and appear to be playing far too well at the moment to be in danger of losing, they are only two points ahead of Craigengower C.C. matches played.

So far the Docks have not dropped this afternoon they will be in danger of doing so inasmuch as the Bowling Green will provide them with the stiffest opposition at Hunghom as yet.

KOWLOON C.C. obtained their first points in the League flast Saturday by beating Recreio "B". ### REGIONAL SOCCER SCHEME FOR NEXT SEASON

Championship To Be Decided On Decimal System

FOOTBALL LEAGUE plans for next season were announced yesterday-and on receiving the official circular certain famous Soccer bosses planned to call a meeting of southern clubs.

Officials concerned consider the new League plans too revolutionary, and likely to destroy fan interest. Opposition will concentrate on the method of using percentages into several decimal places to decide the championship.

Evacuees Sent To E. Coast NO MORE children are to be evacuated to the East Coast. Devo, Cornwall and the West are alternative districts mentioned.

The German advance into Holland Belglum and France brought the possibility of the bombing of civilians so much closer that parents are being urged to register their children at once for evacuation under the Government's scheme. Attendance officers are making house-to-house calls. Unlike the first evacuation, it will not now be possible to put the entire transport system at the disposal of the children, because the Government will not decide upon a new evacuation until bombing actually begins, and then other demands upon the railways are likely to be severe.

THE destruction of the French army, the finest in Europe, followed logically on the disaster at Sedan, when the German forces got over the Meuse by way of the two bridges which were left intact instead of being destroyed.

Saturday;

Then the Albert Canal , which, was built as a sort of Maginot Line and not really as a canal, for some inexplicable reason was crossed by the Germans without any serious obstacle being placed there by the Belgian army. These initial mistakes paved the way for the final collapse, which the new generals under the new Commander-in-Chief, General Weygand, could not prevent. The magnitude of the disaster is staggering, it has no parallel in history and from the French point of view, cannot be repaired within this generation.

Amid the ghastly horror and Without sleep, without food, they have borne the physical strain unflinchingly.

Their mental suffering, too, has been severe, not because of the ever-present bomb and shell and the menace of death, but because of the knowledge that wives and children, mothers and sisters were the innocent victims of this terrible invasion. Finally, they suffer because their beloved country with its priceless treasures is at the mercy of an invader who could neither create nor appreciate such beauty.

There were the scattered remnants of human forms, the scarredskeletons of buildings shattered by the incendiary bomb, the derelict possessions of rich and poor, all displayed amid the ghastly chaos and orgy of destruction which only the most sadistle people could bring about and thoroughly enjoy. There must be an end to this evil for they are evil things we are fighting against and the humanrace cannot continue to live amid such horrors. The alleged terms which first saw the light in Italian papers and which Hitler and Mussollni are said to have offered France would, it was thought, prove too onerous, though there was considerable skill in drafting them. The idea was to show how generous these leaders could be to themselves and to their friends at the expense of the torn body of France. Over the vesture have they already cast their

Her Soul Will Remain

French Government under Petain, which claims to represent the nation, is striving for an honourable peace but such a word is not in Hitler's vocabulary.

Chivalry is dead and buried. Grim stark realism takes its place—pity there is none, respect for French culture is gone.

France is to be stripped bare and her naked body is to be exposed to the eyes of the profane world, after polution and outrage. France, however, box not parent yet however, has not agreed-not yet Dire necessity may wring material concessions from her, but not her soul.

That wonderful, vital spontaneous spirit which, through its tromendous creative power, has enriched the world so much must not be lost. We cannot afford to lose France and set up either Germany or modern Italy in its place. If we do then we must bid farewell to progress and to civilisation.

Tremendous issues are being docided at this moment in Europe. It is hoped that France, like Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Norway and Belgium, each of which has formed a government in London, will fight on and will continue to fight side by side with the British Empire until such times as their independence is restored.

These nations cannot remain enslaved. "On horseback," said the first Chinese Emperor, "I won this Empire." "True, sire," was the reply, "but tell me this, can you rule it from horse-back?" A nation cannot be governed indefinitely from the uncomfortable seat inside a tank with the best of the people either in exile or in a concentration camp.

The spirit of a nation cannot be bound. It cannot be destroyed. These nations must live.

U.S. and Democracy

THE United States is now determined to assume the responsibility for safeguarding the Western World from the domination of the Dictators.

At the same time she is doing everything within her power to aid Britain in the tremendous task immediately before her.

The new American fleet is to be seventy per cent, greater than the present one for not only has the Pacific to be guarded but also the Atlantic. It will consist of over seven hundred warships and include eight new battle ships of 45,000 tons each. Then a measure of conscription is to be introduced which will involve the training of young men and women for war and for the duties which war demands.

In other words the United States has become war-minded. That is the first fruit of the present struggle.

The world, not Europe, is to be an armed camp, and this is not a war to end war but the beginning of a series of wars which will last till the enemies of human progress are crushed and that will take many years.

Whopping the Wops

THE Italians are beginning to feel the brunt of war.

They have already lost several submarines in the Mediterranean and suffered heavy damage in Lom-

In addition, their African possessions have experienced the full weight of the South African air force attacks.

The British Fleet would rejoice if the Hallan fleet came out from its base, but it is not likely to do so. The Italians prefer the submarine, the constal motor boat and the bomber as these weapons suit their mentality.

The Germans like the security of numbers when attacking, but the Italian is just as likely to get into a panic and retreat as to score a victory when in a large mass.
It is significant that he has launched no attack yet against the French Army on his frontier. It is said that the Germans have put Italian soldiers into the Slegfried line, but that obviously is not a compliment. Mussolini is very much the junior partner in this campaign, and has made Italy merely a satellite of Germany.

Orders will never pass from Rome to Berlin but always in the reverse direction. After all, the spoils of war, are bound to fall into the lap of those who have made the sacrifice, but so for Mussolini has in comparison with his partner made none at all and if he can continue to avoid doing so, he will.

Mussolini seeks to revive the grandeur of Rome, but Rome was mistress of the world, not the secondary wife of an alien ruler. Julius Chesar was a great soldier and a simple historian, not a melodramatic mountebank, gesti-

Britain's Position

THE position at the moment is that the British Empire is at war now with Germany and Italy.

The whole of the mainland of Europe is dominated by the military forces of Germany and Italy, while the oceans are controlled by the British Navy.
It is a land blockade against an ocean blockade. The British Commonwealth is now fighting for the maintenance of this position. Germany is seeking to destroy it. It would appear to be as dimcult for Germany to dislodge Britain from the seas as it would be for us to drive the military forces of Germany from Europe. The common ground is the air.

We are concerned about the fato of the French Navy, and of the Air Force. It is obvious that the fighting leaders of France will try to co-operate with the British with these arms. Anything which lessens the striking force of Britain and strengthens that of the enemy, delays the possibility of restoration of France as a first-class power.

The terms on which we supported France are that neither will conclude a treaty of peace without the consent of the other. According to the alliance the French Air Force and Navy must link up their fortunes with those of Great Britain. Doubtless Germany will bring pressure to bear on France to prevent this and will either threaten the severest reprisals if it is not done, or perhaps make concessions to induce Petain to agree to the

FRANCE DIVIDED

Military Leaders Disagree With 'Politicians

London, July 21. Reuler's staff correspondent France says that the defeat of the French Army, the finest in Europe, and the subsequent moves of the French Government envisaging capitulation are attributed in objective French circles to two causes—the military views held by the French The inaugural dinner on Saturday to | General Staff and deep-rooted political divisions. On the military side the General Staff minimised the importance of tanks and aircraft and regarded them as auxiliary arms. They held that, as in Napoleonic times, the war would be won by infantry masses and, acting on the lessons of the last war, they calculated on a war of position and fortifications. General Degaulle, who foresaw the German tactics, earned opposition by his theories, which ran contrary to their ed divisions and entered the battle with masses of tanks. Over one. front of 60 miles nearly 4,000 lanks were used.

In armles and divisions the morale was good, but the losses in men and material in the initial operations and at Dunkirk were catastrophic. The subsequent heroism, brilliant tactles and unceasing fighting never made Maginot Line has supplies for four which the Germans won. It was the lack of tanks and planes which led to the defeat of the French armies. The really serious blow to public! confidence was struck when the Government decided to leave Paris and subsequently not defend the capital. When the Government reached Tours, reports of imminent capitulation became current at Tours, Both Marshal Petain and General Weygand are said to have argued: "Let us as soldiers approach the generals on the other side and we shall secure an armistice which will save France's honour and avoid useless

The lack of organisation at Bordeaux when the Government went there contributed to the sense of defeat and hopelessness which was growing.
